My dear students, Why do you learn? What you learn? How do you learn? Do you learn curiously? Have you ever questioned yourself? What is the purpose of your learning? Is it only to get employed and settle in life? How are you going to create an impact through your education? What is the meaning of your learning if you don’t participate in societal development?

Wisdom comes not from age, but continuous education and learning. Education is the passport to the future for tomorrow belongs to those who prepare for it today. Continuous learning is fundamental to the progress of humanity. Let us question, do you learn continuously for your progress? Did you inculcate the habit of reading? Do you share your knowledge with others? Do you learn something new every day? Do you learn new skills and competencies during your education? Do you actively participate to learn from your surroundings? Do you interact, discuss and debate with your peers? You need to learn to participate and participate to learn from your peers, society, and environment. If you don’t learn regularly, you become obsolete and irrelevant like a mobile phone that’s not been updated for four years. Without the required skills and competencies, you can neither empower yourself nor the society you live in. If you don’t learn regularly today, you will miss your passport for the future. An opportunity lost can never be brought back.

Education is the only possession no one can take away from you. Hon’ble CM always reiterates that “quality education is the greatest asset we can give to our posterity”. We all know that education is expensive but the government is spending thousands of crores because ignorance isn’t only expensive but also precarious. The Hon’ble CM never considers the spending on education as an expenditure but as an investment for the future. He understands that education is the key to unlocking the world and he is preparing you all for a brighter future. It is also your responsibility to pay back to the society which supports your learning. If you are not willing to learn, no one can help you; and if you are determined to learn, no one can stop you. Don’t stop till you accomplish what you are destined to and fulfill your responsibility wholeheartedly. Always remember the question “Why am I learning?” Happy Learning!
